

Ousting Of Denfeld Brings Many Protests

Solons To Reopen Probe Of Services

Washington, Oct. 28—(AP)—A storm of protest broke today over the firing of Admiral Louis Denfeld as the navy's top admiral, and at least two Congress members demanded that Secretary of the Navy Matthews resign.

Matthews met Denfeld face-to-face and offered him a new lesser post, but Denfeld kept silent on whether he will accept it or throw up his 40-year naval career entirely. An aide, Capt. Walter Karig, said the admiral probably would do the latter.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) called for Matthews to resign "so that a new top team can function properly." He said it is "imperative" for Matthews to quit.

Bates Hits Matthews

Rep. Bates (R-Mass.) also clamored for the scalp of Matthews, who insisted that Denfeld be shifted from the post of chief of naval operations. President Truman announced the shift yesterday.

Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.) said the ousting of Denfeld and announced cuts in naval strength had thrust "a dagger into the heart of the United States Navy."

"What the enemy could not do by gunfire, torpedoes and kamikazis, politicians have achieved by the fatal blue liquid spray of a pen," Mrs. Rogers said.

Meanwhile, Capt. Karig, Denfeld's special aide, said a number of naval associates of Denfeld have told the admiral they were "ready to turn in their suits." Karig said Denfeld advised them all to stay in the service.

Will Be 'Dealt With'

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services committee said the ouster will be "dealt with" on the floor of the House in January, and in his committee's report on the Armed Services row.

Vinson charged that Denfeld had been forced to "walk the plank" in reprisal for his testimony before the House committee in angry hearings on the split in the military high command. Denfeld told the committee two weeks ago that the Navy's attack power was being ruined under the unified defense setup.

Deluged by expressions of sympathy over his removal, Denfeld said in a fighting speech to Navy men today that no other service and "no individual" is going to hurt the Navy.

And to a friend who telephoned from Houston, Tex., the 58-year-old admiral declared:

"I'm sure I did the right thing. I have no regrets whatever."

Expectant Mother Accidentally Shot By Young Nephew

Chicago, Oct. 28—(P)—An expectant mother was shot in the thigh today by her young nephew who thought he was playing with a toy pistol, police reported.

Detective Edward Hayes gave this account:

Seven-year-old Samuel Passero found the .32 caliber revolver behind an armrest in his father's automobile which was parked in front of the home of his aunt, Mrs. Ann Passero, 26.

Samuel and a playmate, Dennis Cogan, six, began playing "cops and robbers" in the car. Samuel stuck the gun out of the window and said "boom."

The weapon went off, striking Mrs. Passero who was sitting in front of her home.

The child's father, Charles, 30, told Detective Hayes that he had bought the car second hand two days ago and did not know the gun was in it.

4 Men Take Truck And 11 Video Sets

Chicago, Oct. 28—(P)—Four men in a black car curbed a delivery truck today, overpowered the driver, and fled with the truck and its load of 11 television sets.

Michael Mikus, who runs his own express company, told police he noted the car following him for several blocks. He said an armed gunman jumped out of the car and pulled him from the cab of the truck.

The gunman then drove the truck away and the other three men followed in the car. Mikus said they estimated the value of the truck's contents—which included 50 coffee makers—at $3,050.

Mikus said he was overtaken near 456 East Marquette Road on the south side.

Statisticians Report Rise In Living Costs

Washington, Oct. 28—(P)—An increase of one-half of one per cent in the cost of living was reported today by the Bureau of Labor statistics.

The rise in consumer prices from mid-August to mid-September was the largest monthly increase all year.

The cost of almost everything the consumer buys went up a little, except clothing. Apparel prices were down about one-tenth of one per cent—the equivalent of a nickel on a $50 suit of clothes. It was the eleventh successive monthly decrease in clothing prices, however, and they now stand about 7 per cent lower than in October of last year.

Despite the slight general rise in living costs, they still were 3 per cent lower than the record peak reached in September, 1948. However, the level last month was 27 per cent higher than in June, 1946, when price controls ended, and 72 per cent above pre-war August, 1919.

The BLS living cost index is based on the 1935-39 average, which is arbitrarily set at 100.0.

On September 15 this year it stood at 169.6.

Higher price tags were applied last month to food, up 0.8 per cent; fuel, 0.9 per cent; house furnishings, 0.4 per cent; rents, 0.3 per cent; and miscellaneous goods and services, such as automobiles, soap and do-die, 0.2 per cent.

Food prices were a little more than double what they averaged during the last five years before World War II, although they were down 5 per cent lower than a year ago.

The higher living costs index announced today had no immediate effect on the wages of General Motors workers, which are tied partly to the rise and fall of the BLS guide figure. Under their contract, wages are readjusted only once in three months. The next is due in November.

The coal-steel strikes have pushed the nation's October industrial output to the lowest level in three and a half years the federal reserve board estimated Friday.

It forecast an 11 per cent drop in production below September to the lowest point since the spring of 1946.

Chicago Water Supply Hit

The coal strike hit at Chicago's water supply, forcing a cut in pressure in half of the city's 12 pumping stations.

Rep. Madden (R-Ind.) suggested that federal surplus foods be supplied to impoverished families of steel strikers in Indiana. He advised Gary and East Chicago, Ind., to seek such aid.

The striking United Mine Workers union approved emergency arrangements for supplying coal to hospitals, schools, food processors and private homes in the Pittsburgh district where the need is critical.

These developments came a day after President Truman said the strikes have not yet created a national emergency that would justify an act by him to halt them. He said that day still is a long way off.

Thus, the job of settling these strikes is in the hands of federal mediators Chief Cyrus S. Ching and the disputants themselves.

No Report Of Progress

Ching met again with representatives of the U.S. Steel corporation in New York but gave no report of progress. He has been talking fruitlessly for more than a week with representatives of the industry and the striking CIO United Steelworkers union. The 458,000 steelworkers struck Oct. 1, demanding free pensions.

The coal dispute was at a standstill. Northern and western operators have broken off their negotiations with John L. Lewis' United Mine workers. Contract talks with the southern operators are in recess until Tuesday. The 380,000 coal diggers, who struck Sept. 19, want increased pension and wage benefits. The mine owners don't want to pay out more than the old contract required.

Meanwhile, Philip Murray's steelworkers union received new financial support in its strike. The CIO Textile Workers Union donated $250,000 out of its treasury and is reported planning to raise another $250,000 by passing the hat among its locals throughout the country.

Walter Reuther's CIO United Auto Workers Union has announced it is contributing $100,000.

"The fact is," Commander McCain said yesterday in his denial of the AP report, "I don't know anything about the atom bomb. In my naval experience, I've never had anything to do with atomic experiments."

Commander McCain is in charge of the submarine guided missiles development. What he said was: "The truck today, overpowered the driver, and fled with the truck and its load of 11 television sets."

Michael Mikus, who runs his own express company, told police he noted the car following him for several blocks. He said an armed gunman jumped out of the car and pulled him from the cab of the truck.

The gunman then drove the truck away and the other three men followed in the car. Mikus said they estimated the value of the truck's contents—which included 50 coffee makers—at $3,050.

Mikus said he was overtaken near 456 East Marquette Road on the south side.

"I almost drowned before I could get out," the mother said. "I don't know how I managed to get out of the well."

Truman Signs Bill Giving Arms Aid Of 1.3 Billions

Washington, Oct. 28—(P)—President Truman put his OK today on a $1,314,010,000 outlay to help build up a global defense against communism.

He took that action in signing the foreign arms appropriation bill which congress voted just before it adjourned. The measure contains a billion dollars for European members of the Atlantic alliance, with the remainder earmarked for military aid to Greece, Turkey, Iran, the Philippines, Korea and the China area.

Before the bulk of the Atlantic pact defense allotment can be released, however, Mr. Truman must approve the master strategy plan now being drafted for use against any communist threat in Europe. Final agreement on that mutual aid program is expected by December 1.

The arms bill also contained an extra $62,000,000 for U. S. military construction in Alaska and Okinawa—two of this country's strong points guarding approaches to the Pacific coast.

Munday Declared Incurable In Death Of Boy, 3

Chicago, Oct. 28—(P)—Robert Munday, 15, head of a teen age "Hagmen's Noose club" was declared incurable today for a gangster for which his younger brother once tried to take the blame.

The victim was Tommy "Whitey" Law, three years old, who was hanged July 3 and his body stuffed head first into an army barracks bag. Tommy wanted to be a mascot of the club but was turned down as too young.

The actual charge against Munday was incurability. A previous murder charge had been dropped. He was sentenced to 18 months to six years in a correctional institution, the Illinois State Training School for Boys at St. Charles, Ill.

Munday's brother, Charles, 13, originally claimed he was the slayer. Then Robert took the blame and convinced police he was the killer. Both Munday boys were pupils in a school for backward children. Tommy lived upstairs from them in a baby flat in a back of the yards district.

East Chicago, Ind., Oct. 28—(P)—A Roman Catholic bishop told striking CIO Steelworkers tonight, "in this fight I am with you."

Addressing a strike rally, the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, said union-busting tactics might be behind Big Steel's unwillingness to pay the free pensions demanded by the workers.

"And if the issue is union-busting, as well as pensions, what do the interests hope to gain?" he asked. They hope to destroy your union. Will you let them? Will you come begging?"

Boy Falls Down Narrow Shaft But Is Rescued Alive

Austin, Tex., Oct. 28—(P)—A three-year old boy fell 14 feet down a narrow shaft of an abandoned well today and was rescued alive three hours later.

Hospital attendants said his condition was good.

Bobby Gow, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gow of Austin, toppled into the 10-inch shaft about 2:48 p.m. while playing. A 12-year-old playmate saw him fall and spread the alarm.

His rescue came at 5:42 p.m. after three steam shovels, compressed air hammers, and volunteer pick and shovel workers tore away the earth from the 20-foot hole.

A fireman and a gas company employee pulled the lad from a hole cut into the side of the metal pipe that had held him captive.

A crowd of about 2,000 persons was held back by police ropes. They cheered and clapped their hands as they caught sight of the tiny boy.

He was immediately placed on a stretcher and rushed to a hospital, accompanied by his mother and a physician.

Bobby's sister, Peggy, 12, excitedly told how her brother had fallen: "Mother sent me out to get him and I saw his head go down the hole."

She said her father had kept the pipe covered with boards and a rock. An oxygen line had been run into the well shaft soon after Bobby's head was sighted. Then rescuers succeeded in looping a rope about his arm. They were afraid to try pulling him out, believing they might injure him or the rope might slip off.

Crosby Says He'll Be Glad To Sing In Prague Anytime

Hollywood, Oct. 28—(P)—Bing Crosby will be glad to sing anytime in Prague, where he was criticized last night as a "greedy" American money-seeker who sacrifices his art for gold—but first he wants a flask for protection.

Refusing to take a Czech official's barbs seriously, Crosby today commented: "I'll be glad to play Louis's Prague anytime. And I'll split with the commentator 80-20—he's on the short end of course. Where can I get a flask suit?"

Meantime Frank Sinatra, who the Czech spokesman said was a "much better" singer, rose to Bing's defense.

Said Sinatra: "Anybody who says Bing's singing makes them sick has got politics in the ear."

The criticism was made by an unidentified commentator at a Prague theater where a two-hour program of Crosby recordings was played.

"That unidentified voice," said Sinatra, "will probably turn out to belong to Bob Hope."

Sinatra said he was "aking the whole matter up" with the head of his Prague fan club, whom he identified as Miss Vera Berdickova of 42 Bekrhind, Prague 7. "We'll see," he said, "what she thinks of it."

Hints Legislature Will Be Asked To Merge Aid Groups

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 28—(P)—Governor Stevenson hinted today that the general assembly may be asked again in 1951 to merge Illinois welfare and public aid agencies.

The 1949 assembly turned down the governor's plan for putting four assistance programs handled by the Illinois Public Aid commission under an enlarged state welfare department.

In a message sent to the annual conference of the Illinois Welfare association, in progress here, Stevenson said:

"We hope during the year to study the distribution of welfare programs throughout the state government and come forward with definite proposals for strengthening those services and for coordinating the resources which are available to serve people."

IPAC administers programs for helping the aged, needy, blind and dependent children. The welfare department's big job is management of state mental hospitals.

ALARM FOR POLICEMAN

Chicago—(P)—It is part of Inspector Edwin J. Daly's job to solve personal problems of members of the police force. Such as this:

The problem—A cop often was late for work. Investigation brought out that his mother just would not wake him when she thought he needed more rest.

The solution—The cop was given an alarm clock to hide under his pillow.

Thomas To Be Tried For Fraud Next Month

Washington, Oct. 28—(P)—Rep. 698.37 by padding his office payroll and through "kickbacks" from his employees.

If convicted, the 34-year-old lawmaker faces a maximum of 32 years in prison and fines amounting to $40,000.

Holtzoff also ordered Thomas' arrest. She was indicted on a conspiracy charge at the same time Thomas was indicted on a fraud charge.

This report on Thomas' condition was included in a detailed clinical analysis prepared by two private physicians here. They examined the 34-year-old congressman last Wednesday at the request of Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff.

Holtzoff promptly ordered that since the indictments were returned, Thomas be on hand November 7 by a federal grand jury here last when the twice-deferred fraud hearing is scheduled to get underway.

Thomas, one-time chairman of the House un-American activities committee, was indicted November 8, 1948, charged with conspiring to defraud the government out of $1.5 million.

Both have been free under bonds of $1,000 and $500 respectively ever since the indictments were returned.

The medical report on the present state of Thomas' health was ordered by Holtzoff after defense attorneys' motion, was indicted November 8, 1948, charged with conspiring to defraud the government out of $1.5 million.

Not Much Chance Of Cutting Shoe Prices Say Makers

Chicago, Oct. 28—(P)—The nation's shoe makers and retailers don't see much chance of cutting shoe prices. Leather continues high.

They plan a sales promotional program next year.

This was the shoe situation as sketched by Irving S. Florsheim, chairman of the Florsheim Shoe company, Chicago, at a news conference here next week.

The prospects for lower shoe prices for the buying public are not nearly as favorable as they were a year ago, he said.

Last year many in the industry thought that leather prices might come down, particularly if the international trade situation became more settled.

Now, says Florsheim, imports of South American hides continue below normal because of trade difficulties. The prewar import from Europe of 25 per cent of the calf leather supply has not been regained.

There have been some reports that the UE might pay the FE's per capita taxes and thereby gain a larger representation at the convention.

But even if this happens, said Haywood, neither the FE nor the UE will gain any additional delegates.

The CIO Textile Workers meanwhile contributed $250,000 to support the four-week-old strike of the nation's steelworkers.

The contribution boosted the steelworkers' war chest from outside sources to $350,000. The CIO United Auto Workers executive board appropriated $100,000 to the fund earlier this week.

The textile workers, headed by right-wing President Emil Rieve, also were reported preparing to pass a hat among the union's 350,000 members. The goal of this drive would be another $250,000.

4 Widows Testify 'I Married An Engel' At His Trial

Chicago, Oct. 28—(P)—The first week of the criminal court production of "I married an Engel" ended abruptly today after four widows testified Sigmund (Sam) Engel was their husband.

The trial of Engel on a charge of running a confidence game was recessed until Monday after Prosecutor James A. Brown said his last witnesses, whom he did not identify, had not arrived from Minneapolis.

The wispy-haired, 74-year-old Engel then claimed his "only real wife," Mrs. Pauline Langston Engel, from the spectators' benches and led her away. He is at liberty under bond.

Earlier, the blonde-ringed 39-year-old widow from New York had giggled, hidden her face from photographers, then suddenly posed for them while prouetting on tiptoe.

As court adjourned, Engel kissed her gloved hand, murmuring "come home, baby darling."

"No, it's Buttercup," she cooed.

11 Americans On The French Airliner

By The Associated Press

Ponta Delgada, Sao Miguel The Azores, Oct. 28—(AP)—Salvage squads groped their way tonight about the charred wreckage of an Air France Constellation on a Sao Miguel mountain, seeking bodies of the victims and clues to the crash.

None of the 48 persons aboard survived, Air France announced.

There was mourning in the field of sport, art and business.

Marcel Cerdan, French middleweight boxer hoping to regain the world title, was one of those listed as perishing in the darkness early today on the 3,500-foot high Algarvia peak.

Prominent Cuban Yachtsman

Remigio Hernandez, prominent Cuban yachtsman, was another aboard the air liner, bound from Paris to New York.

Miss Ginette Neveu, French concert violinist, the French portrait painter Gerard Boutet De Monvel and a group of American business men and women were others among the 37 passengers.

Eleven Americans in all were aboard. Eleven crewmen made up the death roll.

George Carpentier, once a boxer himself, said in Paris that in Cerdan, "France has lost one of its greatest champions. It is a true period of national mourning."

Charred bodies and fragments of flesh were found over a radius of 300 yards. Four or five bodies were more or less recognizable, but were not immediately identified, the searchers said.

Affairs Before It Fell

Shepherders in the vicinity said they saw the plane aflame before it fell. The craft crashed near the tip of the peak, 90 miles by sea north of the Santa Maria air base, where it had been scheduled to land for refueling.

The plane, in command of the veteran Capt. Jean De La Noue, 37, dropped out of radio contact with ground bases; after sending a message at 2:50 a.m. GMT (8:20 p.m. CST Thursday).

"Having accomplished first part of trip normally, ready to land at 2:55 on Santa Maria airbase, Azores, weather being clear."

Air force officials said the weather had turned bad. They could not explain, however, why they had heard nothing from the plane after its 2:50 a.m. report.

Cerdan was flying to New York with his manager, Jo Longman, and his trainer, Paul Genser, for a title fight at Madison Square garden Dec. 2 with Jake LaMotta. He lost the world middleweight championship to LaMotta in Detroit June 18 after injuring his left arm in the first round. He has been a national hero to the French and his native Morocco.

NLRB Announces That ITU Violated Taft-Hartley Act

Washington, Oct. 28—(P)—The National Labor Relations board today announced that the International Typographical union had violated the Taft-Hartley act.

The board said the big printers union had set up illegally a "bargaining strategy" which tried to impose closed shop conditions in the newspaper publishing industry.

The Taft-Hartley act bans the closed shop under which only union members can get jobs.

The board ordered both the ITU and its Chicago Local No. 16 not to try to force "discrimination" against employees in violation of the act.

The board ruled in two cases—charges growing out of the 22-month Chicago newspaper strike which was settled last month; and charges filed by the American Newspaper Publishers association on behalf of its 300 newspaper members.

The "bargaining strategy" which the board condemned was an attempt to impose "conditions of employment," under which its members would work without a contract.

Lost One Day In 41 Years, To Get First Vacation

East St. Louis, Ill., Oct. 28—(P)—His employer finally has persuaded 68-year-old Carl Graulein to take a vacation.

A kilt tender at a brick company, Graulein has worked seven days a week for 41 years without a holiday. He took a half-day off in 1914 to get married and another half-day in 1945 when his wife died.

Graulein lives in fear someone might "mess up" theovens in his absence.

Frank S. Robinson, company president, said today Graulein has accepted his offer to pay the man's expenses on a two-week air trip to his native town of Strambach, Germany, 10 miles from the sea because of land washed down from the interior.

YUGOSLAVIA'S ELECTION TO UN
SECURITY COUNCIL CAN BACKFIRE

Yugoslavia's election to the UN Security Council is admittedly a victory for the United States over the Soviet Union. But there is some question just how widely the event should be hailed.

The decision is of course valuable as a rebuff to Russia in her attempt to dictate to the General Assembly on council membership. Had the principle been established that Russia could control the choice of any eastern European nation for council duty, the UN's freedom of selection would have been gone.

The result also is a new blow to Soviet domination of Eastern Europe. By further strengthening the hand of Marshal Tito, it cuts deeper into falling Russian prestige in that sector. It was this prospect that led Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky to scream so loudly against Yugoslavia's candidacy.

Certainly the non-Communist world is happy at any outcome that reduces the menace of Russian power, either in some geographic sphere or within the UN. And that is probably true even when, as in the present case, the nation serving as a lever against the Soviet Union is itself Communist in character.

Yet in supporting Yugoslavia so staunchly the United States may have involved its own future more deeply in Eastern Europe than seems wise at this time. Should Russia decide to use force to crush Tito, this country would be hard pressed to remain aloof from the battle if it were heavily committed both politically and economically.

So far most of our aid to Tito has been economic. It still looks early to throw him substantial political backing. Too little is known about what kind of war a Russian-Yugoslav conflict would be.

Within the UN, Russia may decide to stir up new trouble when the Security Council begins meeting in January. Two main possibilities appear.

Soviet representatives may continue to sit in on council sessions but steadily challenge the legality of all decisions on the ground Yugoslavia's election violated the UN charter.

Or they may boycott the council and thus completely hamstring its efforts. For the charter provides that council decisions cannot be taken without the affirmative vote of all five great powers. If Russia stayed away that requirement could never be met.

Neither of these possibilities is inevitable. Despite the rumormongering at election time, the Soviet Union might continue on the council as before. The absence of friendly Czechoslovakia, Russia's choice for the post won by Yugoslavia, will not handicap the Russians in the least in preventing council decisions she dislikes. The veto weapon, already used more than 40 times, is still available.

Whatever happens, it is plain the United States took definite risks in strongly backing the Yugoslav bid. Not the least of those was the likelihood of incurring the displeasure of many small nations who are tired of finding themselves in the middle in the U. S.-Russian rift.

Their attitude is that there is too much emphasis in the UN on one great power "defeating" another, and not enough on searching out some ground where all nations can get together. They don't enjoy taking sides in these recurring tests of strength.

If the UN can ride out this newest storm without suffering crippling damage to the Security Council, the United States might be well advised hereafter to give greater weight to this viewpoint of the small nations caught in the squeeze.

CAN'T DISINHERIT HARRY

Margaret Truman, on a concert tour, is the victim of occasional snide remarks about her success being owed to the fact that she is the daughter of the president.

From the south-of-all-places—comes this stinging paragraph from the pen of Gunby Rule, Knoxville (Tenn.) News-Sentinel: "Miss Truman is betting on her ability to become a singing success before her father leaves the White House. If her father leaves the presidency in three years, she's in for a rude awakening. If he stays for seven years, she might make it."

We don't believe she is gambling on any such thing. She is just trying to make good as a singer. She can't give up her ambitions because her father happens to occupy the White House and she can't dissociate herself from him.

The Exposition also features a light horse show, the International Grain and Hay Show and many other events.

The largest cash prize in the history of the International show is offered this year in recognition of the golden anniversary of this world's largest livestock show. It will also have sterling silver trophies for exhibitors of all champion animals.

The management announces that entries close on November 1 for all the livestock classes, except the carlots, for which the closing date is November 19. For the International Grain and Hay Show entries will be accepted up to November 10.

Good Samaritan Car Aids Drivers

St. Paul.—(P)—A modern Good Samaritan is travelling midwestern highways today "looking for trouble." Helping travelers in any sort of trouble is the special job of Connie St. Mane in his "safety and courtesy car," equipped with the most up-to-date supplies for first-aid to man and motor.

In addition to a stretcher and medical aids, St. Mane carries such additional help for the stranded motorist as: two gallons of gasoline, fuses, jacks, flares, flags, fire extinguishers and tools. He is trained to use them, too, with Red Cross and Boy Scout training in addition to his background as a veteran trucker.

The special red-and-white car travels an average of more than 1000 miles a week to give help in highway emergencies, ranging from fabled collisions to changing a tire for a lone woman motorist. "The look on a woman's face when I pull up and ask for any emergency aid. The 'courtesy car' is helping make friends for an entire industry, according to its sponsors, the Schirmer Transportation Company of St. Paul, Minnesota, operators of a trucking fleet.

Hops Bells For 26 Years

Long Beach, Calif.—(P)—Twenty-six years ago John Pruden found work that suited him. He's been "hopping bells" ever since. "Some men go through life and never find the job they enjoy," says Pruden. "I may be a professional parasite—but I love it. I've been offered other positions, but when a man finds the job he's happy doing he should hang on to it."

John is bell captain at the Lafayette Hotel, and he'll have you know that there's a difference between a bell hop and a bell man. "Any nick from the sticks," as he puts it, can grab a suitcase and be a bell boy. You become a bell man when you realize the important thing is to keep the guest happy.

His biggest tip? An automobile from a guest (whom he won't name) who had to leave town suddenly and liked Johnny's service.

NOT A DROP TO DRINK—Dr. George Klotzbaugh holds a "dry raindrop" in the path of a radar beam at the Westinghouse Laboratories in Pittsburgh, Pa. The make-believe drops, made from a plastic mixture, have the identical electrical behavior of real rain. Using the drops and sensitive measuring instruments, scientists can determine the effect of rain, sleet and snow on ultra-shortwave radar, the kind used by military planes. The work is being carried on for the Office of Naval Research.

Children's Art Topic Of Program For Ashland Club

Ashland—A program on "Children's Art" was the highlight of the October meeting of the Ashland Woman's club, held in the library club rooms, under the direction of the art committee, with Mrs. John Leahy as chairman.

David Buck, art instructor at Edward's place in Springfield, was the speaker. Work done by children at Edward's place was on exhibit.

The musical program, which consisted of vocal and piano selections, was presented by the Misses Mary Flagg, Mitzi Ryder, Mary Margaret Devlin and Carroll Wood, students at the Springfield Junior college. Richard Hager of Ashland sang two vocal solos.

A film on "Christian Rural Life Overseas" was shown, in connection with a drive which is in progress this week.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mesdames R. O. Beadles, William R. Campbell, Lloyd E. Stribling, Rude Bockemier, Walter Bailey, Carl Lind, Ed Duncanson, Fred Owens and Phil Bailey.

Jerseyville J.C. Working On New Hospital Project

Jerseyville—A second attempt for the establishment of a hospital authority in Jersey county is being promoted by the Jerseyville Junior Chamber of Commerce. The circulating of petitions is already underway. It will be essential that at least ten per cent of the registered voters in each precinct sign the petitions.

The area to be included in the authority consists of all of Jersey county except a part of Piasa township which is incorporated as the Village of Brighton.

The petitions are directed to County Judge William F. Hanley requesting the calling of an election to vote on the proposal of establishing a hospital district. The step is a preliminary one to enable the county to build a hospital and utilize the funds left for that purpose by the will of the late Theodore S. Chapman. This fund at present amounts to approximately $170,000, plus a probable site.

NAMES COUSIN AS CHIEF BENEFICIARY

The late Lillie Ball in her will which has been filed for probate bequeathed household goods to two second cousins, Stella C. Peck and Florence Howard, and the residue of the estate to a cousin, John E. Henry of Deer Lodge, Mont.

The will, made on May 19, 1948, named George A. Wild as executor. Witnesses to the instrument were Hugh Green, Mary Margaret Shannon and J. C. Colton.

Lift Rent Controls In Jacksonville And Suburban Territory

The order decontrolling Road Districts 7 and 14 in Morgan county were based on the expediter's finding that "demand for rental housing in the areas has been reasonably met," according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington.

Woman Is Tired Of Keeping Stray Calves She Found

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Nelson Dinkle is sick and tired of those stray calves she found. And of 77 year old laws, too.

If the owner doesn't claim them within five days, she's going to sell them "regardless of what the lawbooks say."

Mrs. Dinkle found the calves on a highway a few days ago. The small farm she and her husband operate alone at nearby Seymour lacks cattle facilities. She put them in a chicken yard but "they're eating me out of house and home." And the lawbooks gave no help—only worry.

No one has claimed the calves. Her lawyer told her an 1872 law says she must post a public notice and go through a lot of paper red tape with the township clerk, the county clerk and a justice of the peace.

Also, she must not sell the cattle for a year, but must keep them at least that long, deduct the upkeep cost from any money she gets for them later, and give the county the balance.

Lawyers say they know of no penalty in the law, but there's always the liability of a civil damage suit.

TELEVISION REVIVES ROOFTOP ANTENNA
New York.—(AP)—The television era has revived the roof-top antenna in those areas which have taken to video. A dwelling without a TV aerial fast is becoming an exception.

Increase of these new roof-top items serves to indicate how quickly the public is taking to television. First, only the more expensive dwellings had the new aerials. Now almost all types of home have them.

State Legislators Pledge To Approve Gateway In 1950

Chicago, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Top-ranking republican and democratic leaders have pledged joint efforts to put a gateway amendment across at the 1950 general election.

The amendment would liberalize the method of gradually changing the 1870 Illinois constitution. It will be on a November, 1950, separate ballot by authority of the legislature.

The political leaders of both parties, at a conference called by democratic Governor Stevenson yesterday, promised to have their campaign speakers and their precinct workers plug for "yes" votes on Gateway. They will discourage "no" votes and blank ballots.

The Gateway plan has been beaten five times in the past, partly because many people fail to vote on the question and thereby, in effect, vote against it. Some who don't vote on it don't because they don't understand it.

The proposal would allow three instead of only one change to be made

Someone to Love

By IRENE LONNEN ERNHART Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

XXXV
I had to see Ma, and net eyes opened as he reached the bed. She smiled faintly. He felt panicky and alone. He wanted to do something for her, but he didn't know what he could do. It was a terrible feeling, being so alone, and so ineffectual.
"Tod," she stopped between words, like a spent runner. He leaned closer, to hear what she said. "You ought to make up with Jenny."
"Hush. Ma, don't try to talk. I'll do that."
Her eyes fluttered shut. They let him stay there by her bed. The nurse brought a chair for him, and then they put up the usual screens.
After the funeral, the days passed monotonously, and he seemed to move in a vacuum, unknowing and uncaring. He took a room near his work. It was a dismal little place, but it didn't cost much, and it was all he needed, because he was generally in the tavern at the corner evenings.
Rick looked him up once and found him there. They talked for quite a while about different things, and then Rick said suddenly, "So it's all washed up between you and Liz Conover?"
"Sure. That's old news. You're behind the times," Tod said thickly.
"And you've found out you're still in love with Jenny, after all?"
Tod's face tightened, and he downed his drink quickly. "What ever gave you that silly idea?"
A FEW nights later Rick had dinner with Jenny. He spoke of Tod, mentioning that he was drinking pretty heavily.
"That sounds like Tod," Jenny said lightly. He couldn't stand up to anything, she thought bitterly. He was always running away.
"You knew, of course, that he and Liz have split up?"
"I wondered why he didn't turn to her, when he needed help," Jenny said. "What's the matter did she change her mind again?"
"No," Rick answered. "Tod discovered that he didn't love her after all. He quit the Conover agency too. In January I don't think the new job he has amounts to much."
"Darling," Jenny whispered. "I'd much rather talk about us."
Rick reached across the table and put his hand on hers.
"I'll be so glad, Rick," she said. "When you and I are married and we're settled down with the babies."
The line of his jaw tightened and his eyes searched hers. "You think that once we're married you'll be free of him, that you won't think of him any more. Isn't that it, Jenny?"
His direct look confused her. "Nonsense!" She tried to laugh, but it was a failure.
"Jenny, in spite of all Tod's shortcomings, his foolishness in the past and his weaknesses, you still love him."
"No," she whispered then. "No. I don't want to love him, not ever again. I only want to marry you, Rick. You're so fine and decent and—kind and generous."
"Quite a list of virtues, darling," Rick said gently.
"I mean it, Rick, when I say I want to marry you soon."
"If I thought it would work, darling, there isn't anything I want more. But it won't. You and I had better face it."
She couldn't do anything but stare at him.
The waiter brought their food, but after he had left neither of them made a move to eat.
"I talked to Tod for a long time the other evening," Rick said at last. "He's miserable without you, Jenny."
"Then why—"
"But he'll never come to tell you so, or make a single move to get you back. I'm sure of that. He said one reason he had stopped going to see the children was that he wanted to make sure every time between you was severed."
"If he has so much pride, then I'm sure," Jenny began.
"He won't ever try to get you back, because he has nothing to offer you. He's in debt up to his ears for his mother's funeral."
"But he never missed a payment on the house if he had to sell a pound of his flesh every month to do it. I guess that day when he said he had no one to turn to but you, he really meant it."
Tears brimmed slowly into Jenny's eyes.
RICK went on talking in that low gentle voice of his. "If I thought he would make you unhappy again, Jenny, my darling, I would never dream of giving you up to him. But I think Tod's come a long way during these past few months. He's learned a lot of things the rest of us got through our thick skulls a long time ago. But he's got good stuff in him, and now that he's straightened out, if he could have you back, he'd be all right. Nobody ever needed anybody in this world any more than he needs you."
"Oh, Rick," Jenny had her handkerchief out now and was dabbing at her eyes. "I'm so mixed up. I've been fighting it so long—"
"I know Jenny. You've been fighting it ever since that day in the courtroom. I've watched you, knowing in my heart that there wasn't really any chance for me to take his place. But there's no need for you to fight it any more."
"What should I do, Rick?"
"The place where he's working is on Fifth Street, Jenny. Steuberman's Furniture Company. He gets off work at 4."
"Rick, I don't know what to say to you."
"This is what you call being 'noble,'" Rick said. He threw her a wry grin.

NEW TANKS FOR MORGAN CORN

By the Journal Courier farm editor: Private concerns, all over the Cornbelt, are cooperating with the Commodity Credit corporation in its task to find storage for the largest carry-over in the history of the nation. Eight hundred million bushels is a lot of corn.

The biggest installation to be erected in this area is going up on the north side of the Wabash tracks, just west of Webster avenue. The photo shows steelworkers moving bolts in each tank, almost 32,000 of them. An electric impact wrench is a mighty handy tool to have around; it turns down and tightens the nuts in a jiffy.

Due to the unusual amount of moisture still carried by last year's crop, all grain will be hauled to the elevator at Straw Crossing, Mr. Sturdy said Friday. He expects to reduce the moisture, through handling and blending, down to safe storage levels. The corn will then be brought to the Jacksonville plant via the company's large semi-trailer.

A 45 foot, 50 ton Howe scales has also been installed and the business office is practically done. The truck will be unloaded on a ramp to be built directly south of the bins. A conveyor will carry the grain over to the base of an 80 foot, high cap, which will be erected by late start, Mr. Sturdy said. He applauded the efforts of the contractors: Chism & Miller of Springfield, in charge of the steel, General Contractor Earl Boucher and Paul Curtis of Jacksonville.

CAR LOST, FOUND AND OVERTURNED, LOST AND FOUND

Earl Welford of Decatur, lanky young negro railroad worker, and his 1940 Buick put in a busy day Friday.

At around 6:30 a.m. he was driving west on Route 104 headed for Chapin, where a Wabash construction crew is putting in a new spur. The Buick ran out of gas. A fellow worker picked him up and took him to the job; the car was left along the side of the road.

A state highway policeman saw it, investigated and ordered it towed to Lukeman's garage.

At noon the friend hauled Welford and a five gallon can of gasoline to where they left the car. It wasn't there. Welford thought it had been stolen, but inquiry revealed its location.

Welford decided to take the rest of the day off. He drove over to Decatur to see his folks. Coming back around 6 p.m. he attempted to pass a westbound transport truck two miles this side of Alexander. The truck pulled out to pass the car ahead and Welford pulled over on the shoulder. The car rolled over.

Diszy, the unlucky driver was hauled into Jacksonville by a passer, home motorist and left at a friend's home. Reviving, he told his story to acquaintances. They went out after the car, but it wasn't there.

This time Welford knew where to look.

Sure enough, it was at Lukeman's, where it had been towed by orders of the highway police. It wasn't damaged much.
